

Quick!

standuponit
 standuponit

<https://standuponit.livejournal.com/>
2012-08-09 23:34:00

MOOD:  cranky

MUSIC: Chris Cornell - Billy Jean

Good places to eat in central Connecticut!

(Why is it always weekends?)

Yum.

Apples, maple syrup, and cheddar and goat

Behold the power of NOM.

I love the fact that the stand mixer makes deciding to throw together cinnamon rolls to rise

In case of emergency break

eggs

Biscuits are best eaten fresh. And by "fresh," I mean, grabbed off the baking sheet when the oven

---

6 comments

 liret

August 10 2012, 03:50:14 UTC

COLLAPSE

If you're around Hartford, Plan B Burger Bar has a burger with a lobster claw on it. Which is worth eating because burger with a lobster claw on it. And Tullycross Tavern is a really good new place in Manchester.

Also, if you're there on a weekend, Faddy's Donuts will be at the Cabela's sports store in East Hartford. They're good enough that since they don't have a fixed location, fans track their schedule across half of New England.

 tylik

August 10 2012, 12:55:03 UTC

COLLAPSE

Oh, good luck!

Which isn't a comment on food in Connecticut, just the general difficulty of finding decent food in a new place. I've been in College Park MD at a conference all week. Luckily, my labmate S is tied into the Chinese Food Network, and can find us decent Chinese food is available (Joe's Noodles in Rockville is some pretty damned decent Sichuanese food.) The conference has been surprisingly good about providing those of us with unusual food requirements with tasty and adequate nutrition for lunches, but K and I brought an awful lot of our own.

Meanwhile the Wisconsin folks have been raving at length about the merits of frozen custard. Argh.

rekre8

August 10 2012, 15:29:54 UTC

COLLAPSE

Mmmmm...Frozen custard

-Former Wisconsinite

tylik

August 10 2012, 23:21:08 UTC

COLLAPSE

you must understand that I approve in theory. But I haven't had frozen custard, and a few years back I developed a wretched dairy allergy, which means that no matter how good it is, it would probably be too unpleasant to eat. (Itchy mouth, swelling throat, difficulty breathing - not generally life threatening, more like moderate asthma, but enough to turn me off of any dish.)

OTOH, I have been known to haul friends to the various wonderful artisan cheese stands at the farmers market so that I may get vicarious pleasure from them sampling the cheeses I cannot. So it's not that I resent the existence of wonderful dairy products, exactly...

dancing\_crow

August 10 2012, 23:12:13 UTC

COLLAPSE

Max's in Hartford for Oysters! and other relevant and tasty food from the ocean

thecoughlin

August 11 2012, 02:17:15 UTC

COLLAPSE

Well, most of the city streets give me heartburn and the rural locations are a little aromatic.

Do you eat your places tar tar or do you prefer them sauteed?